

W. P. WALTON, Editor and Proprietor.

T. E. WALTON, Jr., Business Manager.

TERMS:

INvariably in advance.

One copy, one year..... $7.00

One copy, six months..... 1.00

Ten copies, one year..... 13.00

Advertising rates furnished on application.

PROFESSIONAL.

H. L. BARBER, M. D.
Having graduated at the Louisville Medical College, has permanently located atHighland, Lincoln County, Kentucky, and offers his professional services to the people of that section.

215-600

J. S. & R. W. HOOKER,ATTORNEYS AT LAW,
STANFORD, KENTUCKY.

Office on Lancaster Street. 200-600

H. T. HARRIS,ATTORNEY AT LAW,

STANFORD, KENTUCKY.

Practices in all the courts of the 8th Judicial District.

156-17 STANFORD, LINCOLN CO., KY.

ROBERT BLAIN,ATTORNEY AT LAW,

STANFORD, KENTUCKY.

Will practice in the County of Lincoln, in the State of Kentucky, and in the City of Louisville. Office 200, Lancaster street Front, Owsley Building.

186-11

H. C. KAUFFMAN,NOTARY PUBLIC

AND

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

LANCASTER, KY.

151-1

JOHN C. COOPER,ATTORNEY AT LAW

AND

GENERAL COLLECTOR,

Lancaster Street, Stanford, Lincoln Co., Ky. 200-1

LEE F. HUFFMAN,SURGEON DENTIST

One door below the P. O.

STANFORD, KY.

Having received his Mechanical Apparatus, is now prepared to do work in every branch of his business.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH

Inserted in the most approved style. 156-175.

A. F. MERRIMAN,DENTAL SURGEON

STANFORD, KENTUCKY.

One South Side of Main Corner of Depot Street.

Will remain permanently at his office until further notice to attend to those requiring his professional services. Particular attention paid to the treatment of the eye, ear, nose and throat.

Persons from a distance requiring full or partial sets of teeth, can have them inserted in a few hours, in the latest and most beautiful style of the art.

Pure Nitrous Oxide Gas administered when required.

All communications promptly attended to. 161-100

AUCTIONEERS.H. T. BUSH,*GENERAL AUCTIONEER,

STANFORD, KY.

Will attend sales in Lincoln and adjoining counties. His charges are moderate. 211

J. M. HIGGINS,AUCTIONEER & REAL ESTATE AGT.

Stanford, Lincoln Co., Ky.

Will attend all public sales, and charge reasonable fees.

200-1

J. M. KIRTLEY & CO.,COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

Flour, Meats, Bacon, Meats, Lard, Grain, &c.

No. 51 Vine Street, CINCINNATI. 212-12

BEATTY PIANO!

Grand Square and Upright.

Daniel F. Beatty,

Washington, New Jersey, U. S. A.

S. T. NEWKIRK,

THE FASHIONABLE HATTER,

136 West Market Street,

Between 4th and 5th, LOUISVILLE, KY.

Hats, Caps, Ladies' and Gent's Furs,

Canes, Umbrellas & Gloves.

156-14

NOTICE.J. H. STAGG,

Having purchased of Mr. A. T. Tuck, his

Entire Undertaking Stock,

His Son,

Thomas Stagg,

will conduct the business at the old Stand, on Depot Street, in Stanford, Ky., and act as his Agent in all matters pertaining thereto. The public patronage is solicited, and it will be a short time to give him a good test. If you wish a word in favor of him, we will cheerfully give it.

Edwardsburg, Ill., says

"The Beatty Piano received great entire satisfaction."

Agents wanted. Send for Catalogue. Address

BEATTY PIANO!

Grand Square and Upright.

From Geo. E. Letcher, Gray of Wm. H. Letcher,

& Bro., Bankers, Fayette, Ohio.

We received the piano and think it is very good.

We will give it a short time to see if it is a good test. If you wish a word in favor of it, we will cheerfully give it.

Edwardsburg, Ill., says

"The Beatty Piano received great entire satisfaction."

Agents wanted. Send for Catalogue. Address

Daniel F. Beatty,

Washington, New Jersey, U. S. A.

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL.

VOLUME V.—NUMBER 36.

STANFORD, KY., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1876.

WHOLE NUMBER 244.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

H. L. BARBER, M. D.
Having graduated at the Louisville Medical College, has permanently located atHighland, Lincoln County, Kentucky, and offers his professional services to the people of that section.

215-600

J. S. & R. W. HOOKER,ATTORNEYS AT LAW,

STANFORD, KENTUCKY.

Office on Lancaster Street. 200-600

H. T. HARRIS,ATTORNEY AT LAW,

STANFORD, KENTUCKY.

156-17 STANFORD, LINCOLN CO., KY.

ROBERT BLAIN,ATTORNEY AT LAW,

STANFORD, KENTUCKY.

156-17

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

STANFORD, KENTUCKY.

156-17

DEMOCRAT,

next Tuesday will be the election for President, Vice-President and Congressmen. Are you at work for your party? If not, put on your armor at once. Victory is within our grasp.

151-1

JOHN C. COOPER,ATTORNEY AT LAW

AND

GENERAL COLLECTOR,

Lancaster Street, Stanford, Lincoln Co., Ky. 200-1

LEE F. HUFFMAN,SURGEON DENTIST

One door below the P. O.

STANFORD, KY.

Having received his Mechanical Apparatus, is now prepared to do work in every branch of his business.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH

Inserted in the most approved style. 156-175.

A. F. MERRIMAN,DENTAL SURGEON

STANFORD, KENTUCKY.

One South Side of Main Corner of Depot Street.

Will remain permanently at his office until further notice to attend to those requiring his professional services. Particular attention paid to the treatment of the eye, ear, nose and throat.

Persons from a distance requiring full or partial sets of teeth, can have them inserted in a few hours, in the latest and most beautiful style of the art.

Pure Nitrous Oxide Gas administered when required.

All communications promptly attended to. 161-100

AUCTIONEERS.H. T. BUSH,*GENERAL AUCTIONEER,

STANFORD, KY.

Will attend sales in Lincoln and adjoining counties. His charges are moderate. 211

J. M. HIGGINS,AUCTIONEER & REAL ESTATE AGT.

Stanford, Lincoln Co., Ky.

Will attend all public sales, and charge reasonable fees.

200-1

J. M. KIRTLEY & CO.,COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

Flour, Meats, Bacon, Meats, Lard, Grain, &c.

No. 51 Vine Street, CINCINNATI. 212-12

BEATTY PIANO!

Grand Square and Upright.

Daniel F. Beatty,

Washington, New Jersey, U. S. A.

S. T. NEWKIRK,

THE FASHIONABLE HATTER,

136 West Market Street,

Between 4th and 5th, LOUISVILLE, KY.

Hats, Caps, Ladies' and Gent's Furs,

Canes, Umbrellas & Gloves.

156-14

NOTICE.J. H. STAGG,

Having purchased of Mr. A. T. Tuck, his

Entire Undertaking Stock,

His Son,

Thomas Stagg,

will conduct the business at the old Stand, on Depot Street, in Stanford, Ky., and act as his Agent in all matters pertaining thereto. The public patronage is solicited, and it will be a short time to give him a good test. If you wish a word in favor of him, we will cheerfully give it.

Edwardsburg, Ill., says

"The Beatty Piano received great entire satisfaction."

Agents wanted. Send for Catalogue. Address

BEATTY PIANO!

Grand Square and Upright.

From Geo. E. Letcher, Gray of Wm. H. Letcher,

& Bro., Bankers, Fayette, Ohio.

We received the piano and think it is very good.

We will give it a short time to see if it is a good test. If you wish a word in favor of it, we will cheerfully give it.

Edwardsburg, Ill., says

"The Beatty Piano received great entire satisfaction."

Agents wanted. Send for Catalogue. Address

Daniel F. Beatty,

Washington, New Jersey, U. S. A.

156-14

BEATTY PIANO!

Grand Square and Upright.

From Geo. E. Letcher, Gray of Wm. H. Letcher,

& Bro., Bankers, Fayette, Ohio.

The Interior Journal.

STANFORD, KY.

Friday Morning, November 8, 1872.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

FRESH Oysters this week at Carson & Dadds.

LARGEST lot of Perfumery at Anderson & McRoberts'.

If you want a Cloak made to order call on John H. Craig.

If you want a good Shot Gun, cheap, go to Bohon & Staggs.

PHYSICIANS' Prescriptions a specialty at Chenuault's Drug Store.

ANDERSON & McROBERTS keep the best Apple Vinegar now.

ANDERSON & McROBERTS have a superior lot of Cigars and Tobacco.

SPLENDID new stock of Lamps for sale, at Anderson & McRoberts'.

A COMPLETE stock of Window Glass for sale, at Anderson & McRoberts'.

No old stock in Dry Goods at John H. Craig's—everything new and stylish.

ANDERSON & McROBERTS have a new supply of Pistols and Pocket Knives.

A WELL assort'd lot of Brushes and Combs, and Tooth-Brushes at Anderson & McRoberts'.

FLAVOR your Sweet Potato pies with Good Apple Brandy from Anderson & McRoberts.

Machine Attachments, for all Machines, kept. Needles, fous for 25cts, at Anderson & McRoberts.

PANIS, New York and Philadelphia feathers and velvets at John H. Craig's millinery establishment.

MIXED Paints, of a superior quality, in vessels holding from a quart to a gallon, at Anderson & McRoberts'.

The most complete stock of Drugs ever brought to Stanford, at E. R. Chenuault's. Prices as low as the lowest.

THE Mountain Herb Syrup, the great unequalled Blood Purifier, is kept and sold by Anderson & McRoberts.

Dont Pay Peddlers two prices when you can buy the best spectacle made, at E. R. Chenuault's at $2.50 per pair.

Be sure to visit the Mammoth Photo-graph Car, two doors above Post Office, when you come to Stanford.

ANDERSON & McROBERTS have a large and complete stock of Books for the Common School, at publisher's prices.

JOHN H. CRAIG offers to the trade 30,000 dollars worth of New and Elegant Dry Goods. No old stock on hands.

THE ladies of Central Kentucky are invited to see the latest New York styles in millinery goods at John H. Craig's.

THE ladies go to John H. Craig's fashionable dry goods and millinery establishment, when they want stylish goods.

THE ladies go to John H. Craig's for the trade 30,000 dollars worth of New and Elegant Dry Goods. No old stock on hands.

EVERY Lincoln county Democrat should rise early on Tuesday morning next, and remain up and at work for Tilden, Hendricks and Durham. We want to have cause to shout at the close of the polls and let the State know that we are true metal.

ONCE lady renders will excuse us for deviating so much of our space, this week, to political matters. We are on the eve of a most important national contest and our whole heart and soul is in the work to secure the election of Tilden, Hendricks and Durham.

TOUR-LIGHT PROCESSION AT LANCAS-TOR.—The Democrats of Garrard are wide-awake to the importance of the hour. Tilden and Hendricks Clubs have been organized in each precinct, and each man has his shoulder to the wheel with the determination of freeing the county from Radical rule. This threw the officials on their guard, who had all the young men and some of the older ones of town summoned to protect the murderer from the supposed lynchers, and the result was that some twenty or twenty-five men lost a night's sleep, the county about $400, when we do not suppose the idea of lynching Smith ever entered the heads of the Carson boys.

We have been presented by Mr. W. B. McRoberts, with a most neat book, entitled "An Historical Sketch of the Presbytery of Transylvania." It was written by Rev. A. Johnston, and published by order of the Presbytery. It comprises a full history of that branch of the church from its foundation in this State, to the present time. It contains a fund of knowledge for those who are interested in the cause, and as it has been placed at the nominal price of twenty-five cents, it is in the reach of the poorest member. For sale by Anderson & McRoberts.

QUITE an interesting case came up before Judge Owsey, the other day, as to the right of the father or mother, who had been divorced, to keep the children. The Court permitted the children to select for themselves. Four chose the mother and two the father.

A STORE that seems to be always crowded with customers, certainly sells many goods. Scarcely an hour in the day goes by that there are not from two to a dozen customers at Hayden Brothers purchasing from their immense stock of superior and cheap goods.

THE SISTER MURDER.—It is now rumored that the cause of the finders' murderer, a short time since, in Palmiti, was the fact that the robbers of Mr. Goodwin's store, were known to Mrs. Surber, who threatened to expose them. The theft cost her her life.

WE are now receiving coal daily; a supply always on hand; all of our coal is weighed to our customers.

WEAR & EVANS.

THESE are one thing that the people of Stanford and vicinity must learn, and it is this: Smith & Miller always keep a splendid selection of Groceries, and sell them at the very lowest figures. It is worth the while to call on them.

C. S. R. R.—Messrs. H. P. Stone & Co. contractor for Section 94, in Pulaski, finished it last week, and passed through town this week en route to Cincinnati to draw their final estimate. Section 94 is a heavy one, having cost the R. R. Co. over a hundred thousand dollars.

OUR thanks are sincerely due to a kind friend for a liberal sample of his nice varieties of apples. Those, sent by his lovely daughter especially, to our junior, were enjoyed by him, with a painful regret that, the fair donor would so soon be snatched from the world and sacrificed at the altar of matrimony.

OUR correspondent from North Side writes that the Tilden and Hendricks club organized in that neighborhood is putting in its work, and that the enthusiasm is so great to put the reins of government in honest hands that none will stay from the polls next Tuesday, but will early and work for the great reformation ticket of Tilden, Hendricks and Durham.

OUR clever German fellow-citizen, Adam Genes, will remove from our town to Mt. Sterling after the election. He is said to be very anxious to make known to his friends how easily and quickly they had been cured by the "great metis of GREEN." At least, from what he has written, one can infer that the fair donor would not be soon snatched from the world and sacrificed at the altar of matrimony.

MURDER WELL OUT.—A few years ago "August Flower" was discovered to be a certain cure for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, a few thin dyspeptics made known to their friends how easily and quickly they had been cured by it. The great metis of GREEN, At least, from what he has written, one can infer that the fair donor would not be soon snatched from the world and sacrificed at the altar of matrimony.

MR. DANIEL F. BEATTY, manufacturer and proprietor of the Beatty Piano and Beatty's celebrated Golden Tongue Organs, Washington, N. J., is in a very active business with. He makes this very fair proposition to any who may favor him with an order, as follows: "If the instrument does not prove satisfactory after a test trial of five days after receiving it, the purchase money will be refunded upon the return of the instrument, and he will pay interest on the amount he has advanced, a sum equal to the amount he has advanced, and safe manner in which to transact business with him. He warrants his instruments for six years. See his advertisement.

LOCAL NEWS.

OUR LAST WORDS.—Democrats, be true to your party.

NEW crop of New Orleans Sugar and Molasses, at WEAR & EVANS'.

OWING to opposition, you can ride from Lancaster to Nicholasville, a distance of twenty-four miles, for two nickles.

WHEN you sell your hogs, have them weighed on Wear & Evans' Fairbanks scales.

WEAR & EVANS now have on their cool yard, over one thousand bushels of cool, and more arriving almost daily.

BEFORE buying, call and see Wear & Evans' large stock of Grates, Mantles, Cooking Stoves, Heating Stoves, etc.

COURT closed yesterday after a session of sixteen days. A great many old civil jury cases were either laid over or transferred to the Common Plea Court.

HON. M. J. DURHAM spoke at Highland yesterday, at 2 o'clock, p. m. He was in town a short time, and informed us that a fire was burning brightly in all of the old session.

WE neglected to state, a few weeks since, that Governor McCreary had appointed M. D. Hughes, Esq., a Justice of the Peace, in the place of Mr. Joe McAlister, resigned. It is a No. 1 appointment.

MR. P. F. HAYS and family, J. H. Rout and family and Felix Huffman and family, left on Tuesday last, to find a future home in Paris, Texas. It is passing strange that any should leave our beautiful and productive country with a hope of finding a better. It can't be done. We hope, however, that our friends will find a pleasant home, be surrounded by kind friends, and never have occasion to regret that they left the dear old home of their childhood.

KILLED.—A man named Jones, while in a drunken condition, went into the house of a colored woman, at Mt. Vernon, last week, and, seeing a pistol on the table commenced fooling with it. The woman attempted to take it from him, and in the scuffle it was discharged, the load taking effect in the abdomen of Jones, killing him in a short time. The coroner's verdict was that Old man Adams need not flatter himself that the business men of Stanford will submit to the delays attending wheelchair navigation in these days of fleet horses, forded lightning and steam. They will order their goods by regular freight if arrangements are not speedily made for freight delivery. No fault can be attached to the gentlemanly and accommodating agent here for this negligence.

LAND, STOCK AND CROP ITEMS

HOGS are selling in the market at 42cts.

MR. J. C. McALISTER, Jr., shipped two car loads of fat cattle to Cincinnati, last week.

MR. J. OWSEY Evans sold a lot of fine cattle to Fayette county traders, at 42cts.

MR. LEVI JONES, of this county, shipped 100 lbs. fat New York cattle to that market this week.

J. B. OWENS has an Alderney Bull which he will "farm out" at $5 per cow, and allow the farmer to breed to him until his cow has a calf. His animal is thoroughly bred, and this breed is known as the best milk and butter stock in the world. The animal is convenient to town.

W. G. JACOBS shipped from this point, on Monday last, two car loads of stock to Texas, consisting of 2 jacks, 25 head blooded young bulls and heifers, 50 head southdown sheep, and a lot of Red Berkshire pigs. They were purchased at good prices from Keeney, Cotton & Co., of Boyle, and Dr. T. B. Montgomery and John Baughman, of Lincoln.

To the Democracy of the Eighth Congressional District.

I have been recently solicited to make speeches in various portions of the Eighth Congressional District. As it will be impossible for me to comply with these invitations, I desire through the columns of your paper to impress upon the minds of the Democrats of the District, and especially those who were friendly to my aspiration when I was a candidate for the nomination, not only the importance, but the absolute propriety of giving to Judge Durbin a cordial and active support. When I became a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress, I favored a convention, as the least objectionable method which the party could adopt to select a candidate from among those who aspired to the position. My reason for preferring this method, was because it is a less likely to disturb the harmony of the party, and presented fewer obstacles to a complete coalition of contending factions in the support of the successful candidate. If I succeeded, I knew I would have to depend upon those very men who opposed me in convention, but I trusted them as Democrats and was willing to risk my success upon their integrity. Of course I felt a corresponding obligation upon myself and friends to support the nominees of the convention, if he were my bitterest foe. I entered the list with no opponent in the field but Judge Durbin. I did not propose to fight him with my "vizer down." I looked him in the eye, and flung my gauntlet at his feet. He accepted the wager of battle, and awaited my attack. He was pampered in his official record, and I broke a lance upon him with the determination to win the battle. The market is still glutted with butter, sweet potatoes and apples.

Two hundred and fifty pounds of good flour will buy a farm bell.

Our farm bells are fully warranted for one year.

It is about time that the heathenish practice of borrowing meat cutters and lard kettles, should be discontinued, in this enlightened country, especially where five loads will buy one each of these indispensable articles.

NEW BILL OF FARE.—Cranberries, Mince Meat, Buckwheat Flour, New Hominy, Macaroni, Vermicelli, Porkhouse Sausage, Corned Beef, Fresh Fish and Possum and Turners.

THINGS NEW, NOVEL AND SEASONABLE.—Foot-mats, Mop-sticks, Scrub Brushes, Fire Sets, Wire Fire Fenders, Sad-iron Holders, Hooded Coal Hods, Tea and Counter Scale, Farm and Call Bells, Novelty Sausage Grinders, etc., etc.

WEAR & EVANS.

STANFORD, KY.

Friday Morning, November 2, 1876.

(Written for the Interior Journal.)

AUTUMN EVENING.

BY BLACK BELL.

In the quiet bush of the evening,
While the shadows grow heavy and long,
I hear the nightingale voices
Sofly warbled through.

The birds that so late with music,
Gave melody to the hours,
Have flown with the beautiful sunsets,
Gone with the leaves and flowers.

Oh, summer, we miss the music,
The leaves were lovely and bright,
But if ye had taken these only,
In your swift and easy flight.

We could smile a parting blessing
Through tears like the April rain,
To know that the breath of the South
Might call you back again.

It is for the vanished brightness
Of meadow and wood and dale
Are our sights borne like a requiem,
On wings of the Autumn gale.

It is for the flowers that never,
May brighten our earth again,
That our hearts go out with loving,
In passionate yearning pain.

Yet, when life's winter is over,
We shall find there all once more,
Where they bloom in immortal beauty,
On Boston's eternal shore.

O. G. T.

ROBERTS CHAPEL, KY.,
October 23rd, 1876.]

The Casey County Convention I. O. G. T. convened at the above place on the 7th inst., W. H. Bell, Pres. in the chair, who called the house to order at 10 o'clock A. M.—Minutes of previous meeting read and approved. Address of welcome read by Sister Lizzie Woodson, after which, business matters of Convention was taken up. The following Committees were appointed:—Committee on Credentials, composed of J. R. Richardson, Jno. Lay, J. M. Deboard, G. W. Penn, R. A. Goode, who reported 8 Lodges represented with one aggregate delegation of 44 members;—Committee on State of the Order—J. F. Moore, W. Purteet, R. A. Goode, S. Combs, Geo. Coffman, W. Hughes and J. M. Deboard; said committee reported all the Lodges in quite a flourishing condition, except one, it being rather lukewarm.—Committee on Programs—A. C. Woodson, N. W. Hughes, S. S. Myers, J. R. Purteet.—Committee of Arrangements—Wm. Sweeney, Asaunda Brown, Leah Woodson.—Committee on Resolutions—D. B. Goode, G. A. C. Rochester, G. W. Penn, D. M. Johnson, A. Easton, Geo. Coffman, J. K. Purteet, J. M. Deboard.—Committee retired, and after a few minutes absence returned and reported the following Preamble and Resolutions:

WHEREAS; God in his infinite wisdom has allowed the I. O. G. T. to grow and increase in this county of Casey, and we the members of the Casey County Convention of Good Templars being in meeting assembled therefore be it Resolved: 1st. That to all sister organizations we send most hearty greetings, and encourage them in their good work.

2nd. That the lodges of Good Templars in the counties of Lincoln and Pulaski be cordially invited to become integral parts of this convention.

3rd. That we consider drunkenness a crime, and we pledge ourselves to use our utmost influence to check the prevalent habit of intemperance, and as far as in our power lies to banish it, and as far as in our power lies to do so.

4th. That we sincerely recommend the perusal of the Riverside Weekly, and assure the members of this convention that it is the Temperance organ of Kentucky, and should receive their encouragement.

5th. That we extend the thanks of this convention to Sister Lizzie Woodson for her admirable essay, and to all the sisters for their presence and interest manifested.

6th. That we meet the 1st Saturday in every month, until we have met with every lodge represented in the convention, [Omitting the lodges here already met with] then every three months.

7th. That the proceedings of this convention be sent to the Riverside Weekly, Danville Advocate, Int. Journal and Somerset Republican for publication.

D. B. Goode, G. A. C. Rochester, G. W. Penn, D. M. Johnson, A. Easton, Geo. Coffman, J. K. Purteet, J. M. Deboard, Committee.

The Committee on Resolutions reported same, which were read and adopted severally, after which the meeting was adjourned until 1 o'clock, P. M. During the interval all participated in an excellent repast furnished by the good-spirited Roberts Chapel. At 1 o'clock the house was called to order and the exercises of the afternoon opened with prayer by Rev. D. M. Johnson, after which singing by the choir, led by O. Smith. The afternoon was devoted chiefly to speaking—Speeches were delivered by G. A. C. Rochester, Valley Lodge, 1369, D. M. Johnson, S. Young Lodge, 1187, D. B. Goode, Prewitt Lodge, 677, all of whom delivered able and impressive speeches. It was then moved, that those now in office be retained for next three months, which motion was carried. There being no more business of importance, Chairman announced that next in order was fixing a place to hold next meeting—Thereupon, Willow Spring, Bellwood and New Era were placed in nomination, voted taken, and on first ballot stood as follows: Willow Spring, 21, Bellwood, 19, New Era, 4. Second ballot, Willow Spring, 19, Bellwood 4. At this juncture N. W. Hughes, D. B. Goode, W. H. Bell, F. Moore and N. B. Nash were nominated for county lecturers, all of whom was elected, and ere this "mounted" the rostrum. The meeting was then adjourned to meet again on first Saturday in Nov., at Willow Spring, Casey county.

N. B. NASH, Sec.

Radical Editors.

The following from the St. Louis Times is a pretty fair picture of nine-tenths of the Radical editors who, driven to the wall, manufacture lies for partisan purposes:

"Joseph Medill, the present editor of the Chicago Tribune, is undoubtedly the most atrocious and infernal liar who is now writing for the press. The outrageous and unblushing falsehoods of which he has been guilty during the campaign should earn him an eternity of infamy. It is impossible that he should ever recover from the disgrace which he has inflicted upon himself by his contemptible course. If the vitriolic oil which should be dragged through a horse pond, no amount of drainage would ever relieve the pond of the poison."

Admitting The Probability.

Mr. W. H. Miller, Elector for the Eighth District.

A new and very interesting phase has just been presented by the presidential contest. Within the last week we have seen the attention of one of the parties to it suddenly and strangely turned from the present conditions and demands of the struggle to the after consequences of it. We have seen the Republicans half in the very midst of the fight and call a general council to consider what is to be done after the fight is over and they are defeated. Singularly enough, they look beyond November into February; they pass by the popular vote on the 7th of next month, and fix their attention on the counting of that vote in the capitol at Washington on the second Wednesday of the second month of 1877. This is a remarkable incident. It is remarkable because it follows immediately after the Republican defeat in Indiana and West Virginia; remarkable because the extraordinary council is called from Washington. Republican papers in New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and San Francisco take precisely the same view of the anticipated emergency, and give the same advice about meeting it; and remarkable because of the singular conduct of the administration in connection with it. The emergency indicated is the probable election of Tilden. The Republicans concede this probability by consulting about what is to be done after it shall have taken place; and they betray revolutionary designs by concurring in a programme for thwarting the will of the people. They argue that Tilden will be elected; they assume that he will be elected by intimidation in the Southern States; and they declare that, if thus elected, he shall not be inaugurated.—[St. Louis Republican.]

A New Dodge.

The feblest effort yet made by the Republican leaders to arouse the fears of Northern people—especially capitalists—in regard to the election of Governor Tilden to the Presidency, is the attempt to create the impression that foreign capitalists will look with suspicion upon American securities in the event of Democratic success. This vain attempt indicates their apprehension of impending defeat to the Republican party. No such fear respecting the stability of American credit upon the election of Gov. Tilden is entertained abroad. The capitalists of Europe are as well informed as are the capitalists of the United States; they are as thoroughly posted respecting the superior wisdom of Democratic statesmen on finance, over the shallow-brained meddlers of the Republican party, as are the American people themselves. They know, too, that the election of Governor Tilden will insure harmony between the North and South, and consequently, renewed prosperity to the whole country—two essential conditions of national credit and stability. Instead, therefore, of fear or suspicion, the capitalists of Europe will hail the approaching triumph of the Democratic party as affording ground for greatly increased confidence in all American securities, which can only be impaired by the continuance of the disturbing revolutionary policy of the Republican party of the ten years past. The weakness of the new dodge is too transparent for serious consideration.—[Louisville News.]

If Tilden is Elected.

Should Tilden win, the very hills, "the eternal sentinels of God," would nod to the valleys, and the valleys would smile to the sea, and the sea would kiss the shores in joy over the event that would perpetuate civil liberty in the Republic, confidence would be restored, trade revived, hoarded millions put in circulation, species resumption would come at once, born of the universal faith of citizens in the stability of our Government and the free and impartial administration of its laws. The broken-hearted South would be built up, prosperity would return to them, and black and white glory in the blessing of the country rescued from the prince of misrule and corruption. Columbia, daughter of the skies, will, with radiant brow, virtue in her heart, leading in the path of truth and liberty, waving her banner of light, conduct our people on an unpausing career of matchless happiness, renown and power, with home rule secured, fraternity existing, and honesty, economy and justice practiced everywhere. So may it be for you and me, and our and our children's children after us.—[From John Young Brown's Louisville Speech.]

Tilden's Probable Cabinet.

Mr. Tilden's election being assured, the question is being asked who will constitute his next Cabinet. Conjectures and predictions are, of course, all in vain, but knowing ones say it will stand something like this:

Secretary of State—Charles Francis Adams, of Massachusetts.

Secretary of the Treasury—Allen G. Thurman, of Ohio.

Secretary of War—John M. Palmer, of Illinois.

Secretary of the Navy—Andrew G. Curtin, of Pennsylvania.

Secretary of the Interior—Chas. A. Dana, of New York.

Postmaster General—Henry W. Atkinson, of Kentucky.

Attorney General—James R. Doolittle, of Wisconsin.

We should like to see Iowa represented in this matter, if possible.—[Burlington Gazette.]

When Grant went into office there were 52,000 office-holders. To-day there are 102,000. This increase was brought about by politicians who desired places for their favorites. Taste sea water on the nearest coast or the widest sea, and it is all salt water. Go into the Republican party, and almost wherever you touch it and unmack it you will find exposed the most sickening aspect of personal dishonesty and of official corruption.—[From Jno. Young Brown's Louisville speech.]

W. H. Miller, Elector for the Eighth District.

A new and very interesting phase has just been presented by the presidential contest. Within the last week we have seen the attention of one of the parties to it suddenly and strangely turned from the present conditions and demands of the struggle to the after consequences of it. We have seen the Republicans half in the very midst of the fight and call a general council to consider what is to be done after the fight is over and they are defeated. Singularly enough, they look beyond November into February; they pass by the popular vote on the 7th of next month, and fix their attention on the counting of that vote in the capitol at Washington on the second Wednesday of the second month of 1877. This is a remarkable incident. It is remarkable because it follows immediately after the Republican defeat in Indiana and West Virginia; remarkable because the extraordinary council is called from Washington. Republican papers in New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and San Francisco take precisely the same view of the anticipated emergency, and give the same advice about meeting it; and remarkable because of the singular conduct of the administration in connection with it. The emergency indicated is the probable election of Tilden. The Republicans concede this probability by consulting about what is to be done after it shall have taken place; and they betray revolutionary designs by concurring in a programme for thwarting the will of the people. They argue that Tilden will be elected; they assume that he will be elected by intimidation in the Southern States; and they declare that, if thus elected, he shall not be inaugurated.—[St. Louis Republican.]

W. H. Miller, Elector for the Eighth District.

A new and very interesting phase has just been presented by the presidential contest. Within the last week we have seen the attention of one of the parties to it suddenly and strangely turned from the present conditions and demands of the struggle to the after consequences of it. We have seen the Republicans half in the very midst of the fight and call a general council to consider what is to be done after the fight is over and they are defeated. Singularly enough, they look beyond November into February; they pass by the popular vote on the 7th of next month, and fix their attention on the counting of that vote in the capitol at Washington on the second Wednesday of the second month of 1877. This is a remarkable incident. It is remarkable because it follows immediately after the Republican defeat in Indiana and West Virginia; remarkable because the extraordinary council is called from Washington. Republican papers in New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and San Francisco take precisely the same view of the anticipated emergency, and give the same advice about meeting it; and remarkable because of the singular conduct of the administration in connection with it. The emergency indicated is the probable election of Tilden. The Republicans concede this probability by consulting about what is to be done after it shall have taken place; and they betray revolutionary designs by concurring in a programme for thwarting the will of the people. They argue that Tilden will be elected; they assume that he will be elected by intimidation in the Southern States; and they declare that, if thus elected, he shall not be inaugurated.—[St. Louis Republican.]

W. H. Miller, Elector for the Eighth District.

A new and very interesting phase has just been presented by the presidential contest. Within the last week we have seen the attention of one of the parties to it suddenly and strangely turned from the present conditions and demands of the struggle to the after consequences of it. We have seen the Republicans half in the very midst of the fight and call a general council to consider what is to be done after the fight is over and they are defeated. Singularly enough, they look beyond November into February; they pass by the popular vote on the 7th of next month, and fix their attention on the counting of that vote in the capitol at Washington on the second Wednesday of the second month of 1877. This is a remarkable incident. It is remarkable because it follows immediately after the Republican defeat in Indiana and West Virginia; remarkable because the extraordinary council is called from Washington. Republican papers in New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and San Francisco take precisely the same view of the anticipated emergency, and give the same advice about meeting it; and remarkable because of the singular conduct of the administration in connection with it. The emergency indicated is the probable election of Tilden. The Republicans concede this probability by consulting about what is to be done after it shall have taken place; and they betray revolutionary designs by concurring in a programme for thwarting the will of the people. They argue that Tilden will be elected; they assume that he will be elected by intimidation in the Southern States; and they declare that, if thus elected, he shall not be inaugurated.—[St. Louis Republican.]

W. H. Miller, Elector for the Eighth District.

A new and very interesting phase has just been presented by the presidential contest. Within the last week we have seen the attention of one of the parties to it suddenly and strangely turned from the present conditions and demands of the struggle to the after consequences of it. We have seen the Republicans half in the very midst of the fight and call a general council to consider what is to be done after the fight is over and they are defeated. Singularly enough, they look beyond November into February; they pass by the popular vote on the 7th of next month, and fix their attention on the counting of that vote in the capitol at Washington on the second Wednesday of the second month of 1877. This is a remarkable incident. It is remarkable because it follows immediately after the Republican defeat in Indiana and West Virginia; remarkable because the extraordinary council is called from Washington. Republican papers in New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and San Francisco take precisely the same view of the anticipated emergency, and give the same advice about meeting it; and remarkable because of the singular conduct of the administration in connection with it. The emergency indicated is the probable election of Tilden. The Republicans concede this probability by consulting about what is to be done after it shall have taken place; and they betray revolutionary designs by concurring in a programme for thwarting the will of the people. They argue that Tilden will be elected; they assume that he will be elected by intimidation in the Southern States; and they declare that, if thus elected, he shall not be inaugurated.—[St. Louis Republican.]

W. H. Miller, Elector for the Eighth District.

A new and very interesting phase has just been presented by the presidential contest. Within the last week we have seen the attention of one of the parties to it suddenly and strangely turned from the present conditions and demands of the struggle to the after consequences of it. We have seen the Republicans half in the very midst of the fight and call a general council to consider what is to be done after the fight is over and they are defeated. Singularly enough, they look beyond November into February; they pass by the popular vote on the 7th of next month, and fix their attention on the counting of that vote in the capitol at Washington on the second Wednesday of the second month of 1877. This is a remarkable incident. It is remarkable because it follows immediately after the Republican defeat in Indiana and West Virginia; remarkable because the extraordinary council is called from Washington. Republican papers in New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and San Francisco take precisely the same view of the anticipated emergency, and give the same advice about meeting it; and remarkable because of the singular conduct of the administration in connection with it. The emergency indicated is the probable election of Tilden. The Republicans concede this probability by consulting about what is to be done after it shall have taken place; and they betray revolutionary designs by concurring in a programme for thwarting the will of the people. They argue that Tilden will be elected; they assume that he will be elected by intimidation in the Southern States; and they declare that, if thus elected, he shall not be inaugurated.—[St. Louis Republican.]

W. H. Miller, Elector for the Eighth District.

A new and very interesting phase has just been presented by the presidential contest. Within the last week we have seen the attention of one of the parties to it suddenly and strangely turned from the present conditions and demands of the struggle to the after consequences of it. We have seen the Republicans half in the very midst of the fight and call a general council to consider what is to be done after the fight is over and they are defeated. Singularly enough, they look beyond November into February; they pass by the popular vote on the 7th of next month, and fix their attention on the counting of that vote in the capitol at Washington on the second Wednesday of the second month of 1877. This is a remarkable incident. It is remarkable because it follows immediately after the Republican defeat in Indiana and West Virginia; remarkable because the extraordinary council is called from Washington. Republican papers in New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and San Francisco take precisely the same view of the anticipated emergency, and give the same advice about meeting it; and remarkable because of the singular conduct of the administration in connection with it. The emergency indicated is the probable election of Tilden. The Republicans concede this probability by consulting about what is to be done after it shall have taken place; and they betray revolutionary designs by concurring in a programme for thwarting the will of the people. They argue that Tilden will be elected; they assume that he will be elected by intimidation in the Southern States; and they declare that, if thus elected, he shall not be inaugurated.—[St. Louis Republican.]

W. H. Miller, Elector for the Eighth District.

A new and very interesting phase has just been presented by the presidential contest. Within the last week we have seen the attention of one of the parties to it suddenly and strangely turned from the present conditions and demands of the struggle to the after consequences of it. We have seen the Republicans half in the very midst of the fight and call a general council to consider what is to be done after the fight is over and they are defeated. Singularly enough, they look beyond November into February; they pass by the popular vote on the 7th of next month, and fix their attention on the counting of that vote in the capitol at Washington on the second Wednesday of the second month of 1877. This is a remarkable incident. It is remarkable because it follows immediately after the Republican defeat in Indiana and West Virginia; remarkable because the extraordinary council is called from Washington. Republican papers in New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and San Francisco take precisely the same view of the anticipated emergency, and give the same advice about meeting it; and remarkable because of the singular conduct of the administration in connection with it. The emergency indicated is the probable election of Tilden. The Republicans concede this probability by consulting about what is to be done after it shall have taken place; and they betray revolutionary designs by concurring in a programme for thwarting the will of the people. They argue that Tilden will be elected; they assume that he will be elected by intimidation in the Southern States; and they declare that, if thus elected, he shall not be inaugurated.—[St. Louis Republican.]

W. H. Miller, Elector for the Eighth District.

A new and very interesting phase has just been presented by the presidential contest. Within the last week we have seen the attention of one of the parties to it suddenly and strangely turned from the present conditions and demands of the struggle to the after consequences of it. We have seen the Republicans half in the very midst of the fight and call a general council to consider what is to be done after the fight is over and they are defeated. Singularly enough, they look beyond November into February; they pass by the popular vote on the 7th of next month, and fix their attention on the counting of that vote in the capitol at Washington on the second Wednesday of the second month of 1877. This is a remarkable incident. It is remarkable because it follows immediately after the Republican defeat in Indiana and West Virginia; remarkable because the extraordinary council is called from Washington. Republican papers in New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and San Francisco take precisely the same view of the anticipated emergency, and give the same advice about meeting it; and remarkable because of the singular conduct of the administration in connection with it. The emergency indicated is the probable election of Tilden. The Republicans concede this probability by consulting about what is to be done after it shall have taken place; and they betray revolutionary designs by concurring in a programme for thwarting the will of the people. They argue that Tilden will be elected; they assume that he will be elected by intimidation in the Southern States; and they declare that, if thus elected, he shall not be inaugurated.—[St. Louis Republican.]

W. H. Miller, Elector for the Eighth District.

A new and very interesting phase has just been presented by the presidential contest. Within the last week we have seen the attention of one of the parties to it suddenly and strangely turned from the present conditions and demands of the struggle to the after consequences of it. We have seen the Republicans half in the very midst of the fight and call a general council to consider what is to be done after the fight is over and they are defeated. Singularly enough, they look beyond November into February; they pass by the popular vote on the 7th of next month, and fix their attention on the counting of that vote in the capitol at Washington on the second Wednesday of the second month of 1877. This is a remarkable incident. It is remarkable because it follows immediately after the Republican defeat in Indiana and West Virginia; remarkable because the extraordinary council is called from Washington. Republican papers in New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and San Francisco take precisely the same view of the anticipated emergency, and give the same advice about meeting it; and remarkable because of the singular conduct of the administration in connection with it. The emergency indicated is the probable election of Tilden. The Republicans concede this probability by consulting about what is to be done after it shall have taken place; and they betray revolutionary designs by concurring in a programme for thwarting the will of the people. They argue that Tilden will be elected; they assume that he will be elected by intimidation in the Southern States; and they declare that, if thus elected, he shall not be inaugurated.—[St. Louis Republican.]